FOR GOSPEL SPREAD

Adventists Adopt Resolutions on Subject.

DILIGENT STUDY FAVORED

Question of Advertising in Connection With Work of Evangelists Also Is Discussed.

Three sets of important resolutions that will probably affect the entire ministry of the denomination throughout the world were passed at the council of the Seventh Day Adventist ministers from the middle Atlantic and New England states, now in session in the foreign mission seminary at Takoma Park.

One set of resolutions deals with the presentation of the gospel message, which, Adventists say, is to be carried to all the world, and the committee, in introducing the resolution, declared that "we cannot effectively teach the gospel to others without having, by diligent study, aided by the Holy Spirit, acquired a personal knowledge of the Scriptures themselves."

The first resolution, which urged that the ministers should give themselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the word, awakened some inquiry as to whether a conference president should continue to take part in administrative affairs or devote his time to preaching.

Duties of Conference Head.

Pastor A. G. Daniels, president of the general conference, who is the chairman of the council, explained that while the president of a conference should serve as the administrative head, he should not look after the details of conference, but give his attention to spiritual affairs.

He said that the union and local conference presidents of the denomination in Europe take active parts in the holding of evangelistic meetings, and said he hoped the presidents of the conference in the United States would join hands in this movement and also preach in such meetings to be held here. He said that the conference president should be in charge of the evangelistic work, and that he should be able to reach as many as possible by personal contact, both at the tent and hall meetings, and in house to house visitation, and, thus, by example as well as by precept, encourage all believers to engage in personal soul-saving effort.

Matter of Advertising.

After much consideration, a set of resolutions was passed dealing with the advertising side of the evangelist's work. The resolutions adopted were as follows:

"That in giving publicity to our evangelistic efforts we should avoid all that borders on sensationalism, and shun every expression that savors of self-interest, and that we should encourage all believers to engage in personal soul-saving effort."

"That we discourage the general use of our photographs in advertising our meetings."

"That we recommend that only such cartoons or illustrations be used as are of a dignified and modest character which will teach the truth in a clear and convincing manner, avoiding all illustrations which caricature and burlesque."

"That in advertising we maintain a high and dignified standard in subject matter, workmanship and quality of material, ever seeking to exalt the message we are bearing."

In the religious liberty institute, which occupied a portion of the day, several papers were read. M. M. Snow, associate editor of the Review and Herald, read a paper entitled "Efforts of Various Protestant Organizations to Unite Church and State."

F. M. Wilcox, editor of the Review and Herald, read a paper on the "Evangelistic Work of the Gospel." Prof. Wood of the foreign Mission Seminary gave a scientific endorsement of the operation of the wireless telegraph.

Col. Emmet Garvin Logan, for many years editor-in-chief of the Louisville Times, died last night at the Johns Hopkins University Hospital, Baltimore, following an operation Tuesday for ear trouble. Just before going to Baltimore Col. Logan stopped in Washington for a short visit to friends.

Col. Logan was second only to Henry Watterson in influence in Kentucky and was well known here as the newspaper man who started the late Maj. Archie Butt upon his journalistic career when he left Georgia and drifted into Louisville. They were warm friends.

Col. Logan was born in Shelby county, Ky., and was educated at Washington University, now Washington and Lee University, when Gen. Robert E. Lee was president of the institution. He leaves two sons, who live on his plantation in Kentucky.

MISS RUTH E. WILCOX DEAD.

Former Takoma Park Resident Passes Away in New Mexico.

News has been received at Takoma Park of the death at Roswell, N. Mex., May 10, of Miss Ruth Evans Wilcox, only daughter of Dr. E. V. and Mrs. Mabel R. Wilcox.

Miss Wilcox for a number of years resided with her parents on Maple avenue, Takoma Park, Md., and about two years ago left with her mother to join her father, who is director of the United States Department of Agriculture experimental station at Honolulu.

Several months ago Mrs. Wilcox returned to the states with her daughter and resided temporarily in Montana, going to New Mexico last February, where she resided at the time of her death. The body has been placed in a vault until a later date, when burial will take place. Dr. Wilcox was with his daughter a short time before her death, but in view of the apparent improvement in her health, it was thought that Mrs. Wilcox is now en route to join her husband.

DENY MEETING WAS PACKED.

Chamber of Commerce Heads Refute Anti-Liquor Charges.

Charges that the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday night, which voted to oppose the Jones-Woods excise bill, had been "packed" by the liquor interests of the city were indignantly denied by leaders of the chamber today. They declared such charges had been made only by disgraced members favoring liquor legislation. The interest in the liquor question, they said, had brought out an unusually large number of members.

Among those who spoke strongly in denial of the charges of "packing" were President James P. Oyster, free-chamberman, Chapin Brown, chairman of the municipal legislation committee; Philip King and P. T. Moran. They said that such charges were an injury to the reputation of the chamber and that members of the organization should not make such statements.

COLLEGE GIRL TAKES AID.

Miss Abbie L. Lyle Found Dead in Bed at Randolph-Macon.

DANVILLE, Va., May 15.-Miss Abbie Laura Lyle, daughter of A. L. Lyle of Bartow, Fla., who enrolled last September as a student at Randolph-Macon Institute, was found dead in her bed in this institution. At some time in the night she drank a quantity of carbolic acid.

Miss Lyle was eighteen years old and was very popular. She left no communication explaining her act, and the faculty and students were amazed when her self-destruction became known.

The young lady was missed at 9 o'clock and the superintendent, Miss Lyle, had overslept herself, went to her room. She forced the door and found Miss Lyle lying on the floor. The spring freshets on the York and its tributaries, the Mataponi and Potomac, brought down a lot of debris in the shape of tree trunks and logs and deposited them in the channel in such position as to be dangerous.

As soon as the tug and the snag puller reached the bridge, the latter machine will start taking the snags out of the river and will continue the work until the waterways are clear. The tug was built by the new dredge Delaware for points in the district where her services are needed.

ANACOSTIA.

The twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the rectorship of Rev. W. G. Davenport was held last evening in the parish church, the Emmanuel Episcopal Church. The Bishop of Washington, who was to deliver an address, was unable to attend on account of illness. Rev. Dr. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church, spoke upon the work that has been accomplished by Mr. Davenport and the strong influence it has had on the whole diocese of Washington. Rev. Samuel W. Grafflin, pastor of the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church, expressed the high esteem of the residents of Anacostia as a whole for Mr. Davenport.

N. R. Harnish, on behalf of the congregation of Emmanuel and Easter Memorial churches, presented to Mr. Davenport a silver coffee urn and tray, suitably engraved and bearing the dates 1887 and 1912. Milton J. Phillips, representing the Congress Heights parish, gave a brief sketch of the work accomplished by Mr. Davenport in that suburb and presented to Mrs. Davenport a large bouquet of American beauty roses. There were present a number of clergymen and laymen, as well as a number of ladies who have been associated with Mr. and Mrs. Davenport in their work. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the guilds of both parishes. Music was furnished and dancing indulged in.

Commander A. E. Frittle of John A. Logan Post, No. 13, Grand Army of the Republic, of Anacostia, has announced that the memorial services which have been held for the past twenty years at the Government Hospital for the Insane will be held this year at the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument, as well as at the places of that post. He stated there are so few remaining to conduct these exercises and the necessary preparations are too extensive for them to undertake. The members regret their inability to hold the exercises at the Government Hospital, but are relieved of the responsibility. It is announced, however, that Logan Women's Club will hold the exercises at the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument, and that the committee of ladies from the hospital will arrange to decorate the graves of the soldiers and sailors who died there.

Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of the institution, has issued orders to the florists and to the necessary preparations to accommodate this committee on that day.

Corinthians Find New Location for Home on Upper Potomac.

The moving of the home of the Corinthian Yacht Club from 6th street down to its new location on the Virginia side of the Potomac, between the railroad and Highway bridges, has been accomplished. The moving of the house was accomplished, it is stated, without difficulty, and as soon as the building is permanently in position the shifting of the boats and other equipment of the club will be started.

The new location of the clubhouse is considered an excellent one, as there is ample room for mooring the boats where they will not be troubled by passing steamers and where the construction of marine railways and other conveniences for hauling out and repairing the pleasure craft.

Lay Preachers

By WALT MASON

Ah, my weary heart is reaching for nepenthe sure and true, for so many men are preaching that I don't know what to do! Tired and stricken, I determine some fat novel to peruse, and the book turns out a sermon, and my soul contracts the blues. Worn by worldly strife and hounding to the show I go and find that the actors are expounding doctrines that disturb my mind. And the daily prints are screeching sermons on the nation's crimes; and the magazines are fussing, pounding texts into our ears. Every one is bent on teaching, teaching us with voice and tongue; every one is bent on preaching till the last lone dog is hung. It would make the world less solemn, make our journey far more nice, if we once could read a column that contains no good advice; if the speaker in the forum and the writer in the prints wouldn't nag the folks and bore 'em with a string of Helpful Hints.

TITLE TO THE RIVER FRONT.

District Supreme Court Will Pass Upon the Claims.

Title to lands from Buzzards point to Pennsylvania avenue bridge, along the Anacostia river, on the Potomac river and on Rock creek, claimed by the United States and under investigation by a commission, is to be tested by suits which will soon be brought in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia by the Attorney General.

According to the original allotments in the District of Columbia all the land between Water street and the water front vested in the United States. According to a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1896 Water street was assumed to run parallel to both the Potomac and the Anacostia rivers within the District of Columbia. Under this interpretation the entire water front is claimed for the United States.

Most of the property in dispute is unimproved. There are some few houses erected thereon. Titles have become greatly involved in some cases. The commission established by Congress several years ago, has been determining and locating claimants to the land.

An act of Congress, passed last month, authorized the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to pass upon the titles to this property. The Supreme Court of the United States is not established, the court is empowered to fix the values of water front property.

The first of the series of suits, it is expected, will be filed in this court within a few days. Stuart McNamara, special assistant to the Attorney General, is preparing the cases.

HOBSON FOR SUFFRAGE.

If Women Voted War Would Become Obsolete, He Declares.

Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama declared himself an ardent advocate of equal suffrage last night before the Stanton Suffrage Club at the Public Library.

Mrs. Hemmings presided and the large attendance of the year was present to hear Representative Hobson. He declared that war would become obsolete if women were given the ballot, that peace policies would prevail and the factors of safety would be doubled when questions of danger were involved.

Representative Hobson said that giving the woman the ballot would not necessarily decrease her usefulness in woman's sphere. Questions of morals, health and decency, he said, would be given more attention by lawmakers and that woman's co-operation with man is vital in this new age where service is the test.
